Chief's Note: While many enjoy listening to the music, it has been proven that the individual is playing a recording, not actually playing the music. This is a well documented scam that goes along the east coast. Regardless of whether the music is tasteful and makes for a more pleasurable shopping experience, which is undeniable, the law is clear on the matter of panhandling. With permission from the property owner, these individuals would be free to play music but could not solicit money for it.*
